Distrustful Of Renewal Of Anglo-Japanese Agreements

PEKING SPEAKS

Foreign Office Tells Of Differences In Past Pacts

Says "Article Ten" Has Power To Protect China's Interests

(Reuter's Service)

Peking, June 6.—The Foreign Office has handed to Reuter's Agency the following statement of the position China has taken up in matters arising out of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance:

"Three months ago the attention of the Chinese Government was drawn to statements appearing in the world's press regarding the renewal or termination of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

"Inasmuch as an important element in the text of both of the 1905 and 1911 agreements was section B of the Preamble which treated of matters affecting China's international standing and international relations without the prior assent of China having been obtained, and inasmuch as public opinion throughout the Republic had long shown deep resentment at this condition of affairs, the Government decided that the time has arrived to address representations to the British Government.

INQUIRY ORDERED

"Instructions were consequently sent to the Chinese Minister in London to make formal inquiries regarding the reports appearing in the press and to point out that while obviously the international arrangements of other Powers did not in the ordinary course of events concern others than the high Contracting Parties, the treatment of China merely as a territorial entity in the written text of any such agreements would no longer be tolerated by the public opinion of the country and would indeed be viewed by all as an unfriendly act.

"To these first inquires China received the following verbal reply: first that the question of the renewal or termination of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance had not yet come up for consideration; secondly, that inasmuch as the successive agreements had been couched in the same language, it would naturally follow that if the Alliance were renewed it must follow the same lines.

THE MEMORANDUM

"In consequence of this reply a memorandum was prepared analysing the three successive Alliance instruments and establishing clearly: (a) that the original instrument of 1902 was radically different from the 1905 agreement in that the independence of Korea was specifically guaranteed in the first; (b) that the second agreement of 1905 far from being identical included India for the first time within its

Tugs Go To Aid Blue Funnel Boat

Packling From Liverpool Via Hongkong Is Aground In Bonham Pass

The Blue Funnel freighter Packling, for which Butterfield and Swire are Shanghai Agents, is aground and taking water in a dangerous position near Button Island in Bonham Pass some eighty miles south of this port, according to messages received from the vessel yesterday. The Packling sailed from Liverpool on April 24 and was bound for Shanghai from Hongkong with general cargo.

No details concerning the disaster that has overtaken the vessel, whose registered tonnage is 4,621, had been received late last night, but it was learned that she was taking water yesterday afternoon in her forward holds. In answer to the calls for aid two tugs with divers and equipment and with salvage appliances were despatched along with lighters and laborers to make what repairs may be possible. The tugs that were sent are the St. Dominic and the Victoria.

Van Dyke Urges U.S. To Join In Anglo-Jap Pact

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, June 7.—Mr. Henry Van Dyke, former American Minister to the Netherlands, speaking at the fortieth anniversary of the Tokio Y. M. C. A. today, strongly endorsed the suggestion that America should join the Anglo-Japanese Alliance.

"The continuation of British and Japanese co-operation," he declared, will be a great good, but it will be better if America joins as that will prevent American discrimination against Japan and will prevent Japanese world aggression. There is a British, American and French Alliance in the Atlantic—why not a Triple Alliance in the Pacific, which will guarantee world peace?"

POOTUNG HAS TWO RICE RIOTS; CHEAP EXCHANGES OPEN

Price Reaches $11; Only Ten Junks Arrive Here Daily

FOOD DEALERS RESTLESS

Chekiang Merchants Declare Confiscated Cereal Was Not Smuggled

Rice hit the $11 mark Sunday in spite of the inauguration of two cheap rice exchanges in the Chinese City. In Pootung, rioting continued among the poorer classes. Junks from the interior are still anxiously awaited. While normally 50 rice junks arrive daily only ten reached port yesterday from Tsingpu, Sunkiang, Kuoli and Chuking. No Wusih or Changshu rice was received.

A gang of paupers at Lainitu, Pootung, seized a wheel-barrow carrying the cereal and snatched the bags. Police raided the quarters of the paupers later and recovered the stolen property. Several hundred women and children attempted to raid a rice shop. The prompt arrival of the military police and the closing of the shop prevented a disaster.

GUARDS SHOP

Rice shops went on strike immediately after the attempted raid, but resumed business when the police stationed armed guards at every shop in deference to the wishes of the proprietors. The police also issued a proclamation, forbidding any further raise in the price of rice.

The food caterers in the settlements of Shanghai have increased their prices. Each boarder must pay fifty cents more per month than the old rate. The price of each bowl of rice has been increased by half a cent. This was decided at a meeting at the Ningpo Guild yesterday.

BICYCLE THIEVES GET SIX EACH DAY

Organised Plan Of Thievery Is Being Operated By Band Here

Bicycle thieves are operating a plan of systematic robbery in Shanghai, according to the belief of the police, and have succeeded in making away with an average of six machines a day for several weeks. More than 100 bicycles have been reported as stolen within a few months.

Detective Sergeant Kilkenney has been assigned to make an investigation of the situation and said yesterday that arrests might be expected shortly. He advised, however, that owners of bicycles lock their machines whenever they leave them standing on the street.

In many cases wheels have been stolen when the owner has merely stepped into a shop for an instant.

One case was reported in which a traffic constable saw a man riding a bicycle which carried no light. The officer signaled the rider to halt and the man tumbled wildly off the machine, left it behind him in the street and made his escape. Soon afterwards a report was received at headquarters that the bicycle had been stolen.

NO ATTEMPT TO CAPTURE ELECTIONS BY CHAMBER

China Commerce Body Quick To Deny Allegation

Cantonese Guild Told To Have No Fear Of Chicanery

UNITY IS URGED

Elections To Advisory Municipal Board Open To All

That the Chinese Chamber of Commerce is not attempting to monopolise the privilege of electing five members to the Chinese advisory board of the Municipal Council is the gist of an advertisment inserted by the chamber yesterday in the local Chinese press. The advertisement was inserted following the vigorous protests made by the Cantonese Guild and other local organisations against the alleged decision of the chamber to select the members from its own rank and file.

The notice stated that the question of election of the advisors was brought up at the general meeting of the chamber on May 29 and it was decided to select competent men among the commercial organisations represented in the chamber for final choice. Accordingly, the respective organisations were notified and asked to act.

DENY CHARGE

The chamber was surprised to read in the press that it has been accused of attempting to monopolise the election, said the message. The chamber is a commercial organisation. Although it has only 300 old members, they represent the various trades and guilds and are their leaders.

The chamber, the notice said, has invited all the organisations and guilds to participate in the election and is not picking the advisors from among its own members. After pointing out that all the shops who are members of the Street Unions belong to some guilds, the advertisement concluded by saying that it is not prepared to communicate with non-commercial bodies as there was no way of classifying them.

MEETING HELD

A mass meeting of the members of the Cantonese Guild was held Sunday in protest of the alleged decision of the Chamber to elect the members of the advisory board among its members. Dr. F. C. Tong presided.

The resolution proposed by Mr. Lu Wei-chang to open the election to all taxpayers was unanimously passed. The motion called for the election of five residents who should be as representative as possible of the whole of the Chinese community.

As the result of the decision of the recent ratepayers' meeting, the sercetary of the Municipal Council, Mr. Liddell, it will be recalled, wrote to the Chamber of Commerce, asking it to take the initiative in calling "together the guilds and associations established in this Settlement representing

Neutral Chairman For Imperial Board

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—The Times states that the Government has decided to carry out the resolution of the last Imperial Conference by immediately appointing an Imperial Shipping Committee, consisting of representatives of the Dominions, the Colonial and India Offices, the Board of Trade and shipping interests with a neutral Chairman, to survey the whole question of Empire steamship communications, to hear complaints of lack of facilities and suggestions for improving them and to devise a scheme whereby inter-Imperial communication may be maintained in the most efficient manner.

Pennsylvania Medical School At St. John's Plans Expansion As Rockefeller Withdraws

FOLLOWING an announcement that the China Medical Board, Far East representatives of the Rockefeller Foundation, has abandoned its plans for a Medical Center here costing several million dollars, the Pennsylvania Medical School, which is the Medical Department of St. John's University, Shanghai's great Episcopal educational institution, is planning expansion which it is hoped will make it the Orient's foremost training place for physicians and surgeons. Already ground has been broken for science laboratory building which is to cost $100,000. It will house the departments of biology, chemistry and physics and, temporarily, the laboratories which will be removed when other buildings are erected under the plan for expansion.

Word was sent here that the Rockefeller Foundation had, after five years planning, decided to abandon the project for a great medical center here after last year's annual report showed that a similar institution at Peking had a class of only seven students in its initial season although $6,000,000 had been expended in construction and maintenance of the establishment. It is explained, however, that the situation in Peking is vastly different from that in Shanghai as the Universities and schools here specialise in English whereas those at the Capital deal chiefly with the Chinese language.

When the China Medical Board announced its plans for Shanghai and desired a clear field, after having bought up and closed the Harvard School, the Pennsylvania School which had affiliated with St. John's consented to step aside in favor of the Foundation because of its immense financial backing. Now that it is definitely decided that the Rockefeller millions are not to be spent here the heads of the Pennsylvania School are going forward with plans that have been held up by the uncertainty of the last five years.

NOTABLE GRADUATES

St. John's Medical Department numbers among its graduates some of the most prominent men in the medical profession in China. Dr. F. C. Yen is now dean of the Medical School of the Hunnan-Yale Medical School at Changsha, and was first president of the National Medical Association of China, Dr. E. S. Tyau is physician at St. Luke's hospital here and professor of dermatology and clinical microscopy at Pennsylvania Medical School. Dr. C. V. Yui is physician at the Nanyang Technical Institute, president of the National Medical Association of China, editor of the Association's Journal and

NEWS REPORT OF BOLSHEVIK COUP IN PERSIA UNTRUE

Official Wire From Teheran Brands As False Rumor Of Teheran's Fall

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—Persian official sources in London inform Reuter that the report of the Bolshevik occupation of Teheran, cabled by the Constantinople correspondent of the Associated Press on June 2 and received here this morning is totally untrue. A telegram, received in London today, dated yesterday, does not mention any Bolshevik advance from the coast.

New York, June 4.—The Associated Press Constantinople correspondent telegraphed on June 2, "The Persian Legation learns that the Bolsheviks have entered Teheran."

PERSIA TO PLEAD

London, June 4.—It is officially announced that, at the request of the Persian Government, the Council of the League of Nations has been convoked, to meet in London on June 11 to discuss the situation created owing to the action of the Soviet forces in Persia. Prince Firouz has been appointed special representative of Persia to attend the council.

Prince Firouz declares that the Shah arrived at Teheran on June 3, whereupon 300,000 persons participated in great popular demonstrations, giving evidence of the loyalty to the Shah and their satisfaction with the Government.

BURGLAR LOOTS EXCHANGE SHOP; MURDERS OWNER

Thief Made Second Visit And Slew Victim, Is Theory Of Police

A burglar who looted an exchange shop at 115 Chapoo Road Saturday night returned to the place for a second haul at midnight Sunday and finding the proprietor in the act of putting up the shutters struck him twice on the head with a hammer and inflicted fatal injuries. This was the theory advanced by Detective Inspector P. W. Reeves yesterday when an inquest was held over the man's body by British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li.

The murderer escaped after a thrilling chase by Andrew Ozorio, an attache of the Central Fire Station, and was still at liberty at a late hour last night.

SAW THE STRUGGLE

Ozorio was standing near the exchange shop and saw two men scuffling. Then one, dressed in white, ran away. The fireman pursued the fugitive but was blocked by an automobile coming out a garage and the man in white disappeared in an alleyway. The assessor asked the witness why he did not seek the murderer in the alleyway and Ozorio said he did not know the matter was so serious and Mr. Blackburn remarked:

"It is a pity as you had a good chance to distinguish yourself."

The widow of the murdered man told of the robbery of the shop on Saturday night. She said the burglar obtained 32,000 coppers and a quantity of clothing.

VICTIM'S WIFE'S TALE

On Sunday evening she became nervous when she heard one of the shop shutters, which her husband was putting up, fall to the street and made an investigation. She found him in a dying condition on the sidewalk, a hammer lying nearby.

The Japanese police were called and took the man to St. Luke's hospital where it was discovered that he had two severe wounds on the head. He died a short time later.

Verdict at the inquest was death from blows from a blunt instrument in the hands of a person unknown.

No Decision On Dominions Case, Says Lloyd George

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 3.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Mr. W. G. A. Ormesby-Gore, Mr. Lloyd George said that it had not been decided to transfer the Dominions Department of the Colonial Office to the Lord President of the Council.

With regard to the question whether it was proposed to transfer to the Colonial Office the responsibilities of the Foreign Office with regard to Palestine, Egypt, the Sudan and the responsibilities of the India Office with regard to Mesopotamia, Central Arabia and Aden, the Premier said that no decision had been taken with regard to the administration of the mandatory territories under the Turkish Treaty.

Peking, June 5.—The Ministry of Finance announces its readiness to make a special Treasury bond issue to the banks, amounting to 3,500,000 dollars, for repayment in seven months, beginning the third month after flotation, with interest at 15 percent.

Two More Cities Captured By Southern Militarists; Changsha Is Threatened

The Southern forces have captured two more cities in Hunan and the provincial capital, Changsha is threatened, according to reports of the Tuchun Chang Ching-yao. The captured posts are Yungfeng and Hengshan.

Heavy casualties were suffered at the fighting in Hengshan. The northern forces managed to recapture it after serious bombardment, only to lose it again when they failed to get support from the outside.

The report of General Chang's departure from Changsha has been confirmed. Though due to the closeness of the Southern army, Chang telegraphed that he left for the front to "pacify the restless troops." He is now in Chuchow.

HSU STILL MASTER

Old Hsu is still master of the situation. He sits tight on the various suggestions for war. He has also won the support of Chang Tso-lin and Tsao Kun. The despatch of the Border Defense Army to the South, as suggested by the Anfu Club, is opposed by both.

Under the pretext that the Metropolitan area needs protection, they threaten to march towards the capital if the Border Defense Army mobilises. Tsao has also sent troops to the arsenal at Tehchow to stop the Anfuites from moving any of the stock.

Tsao has filed a protest with the Joint Bureau of the General Staff and the Ministry of War against the movement of that section of the Border Defense Army commanded by General Chen Wen-yuen.

Failing to secure any assistance from the North, Chang Ching-yao has again requested to have the army of General Lung Chi-kwang sent down to Hunan. Lung has

CONSTABULARY IN IRELAND UNDER COMMONS' FIRE

Government Accepts Amendment On Transfer Of Famous Police

PREMIER MEETS R. R. MEN

Tells Of 48 Murders And 120 Frustrated Attempts In Brief Time

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 3.—The House of Commons today continued the debate on the Home Rule Bill. The Government accepted an amendment, providing that the transfer of the Irish Constabulary should not be made until three years after the bill came into operation. Mr. Walter Long promised favorable consideration to the suggestion, made by Sir Edward Carson, that, when the two Parliaments, by an identical act, called for the transfer of the Irish Constabulary, it should be wound up, the members suitably compensated and schemes for the formation of a police force framed by both parties, Mr. Long also undertook to consider favorably the suggestion that, during the transition period the control of the Constabulary should be vested in a Minister and not in a Committee of five members as proposed in the Bill.

Mr. Long stated that if the forecasts made by many speakers came true—if the only use made by the Southern Parliament of its powers was to try to establish a Republic or a Government unworthy of the name of Government, the bill would be suspended and would not come into operation and the Imperial Parliament would be compelled to take such action as was necessary to restore order.

ANSWERS RAILWAYMEN

London, June 5.—The official report of Mr. Lloyd George's reply to the deputation of railwaymen, who, headed by Mr. J. H. Thomas, waited on the Prime Minister yesterday in connection with the Irish railwaymen's refusal to handle military munitions, shows that the Prime Minister's statement was of the most emphatic description.

Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that trades unionism now sought to influence political decisions, not by the ordinary machinery of State, but by threats to disorganise the industries of the country. That, declared the Prime Minister, was a serious issue which he took up at once. He would regard it as a complete abdication of Government, if he were in the least to countenance such a demand. The issue raised was similar to the recent issue in France which had ended so disastrously for the trades unions in France. That was why he regretted the actions of the trades unionists in Ireland.

MURDERS GALORE

The position in Ireland, the Prime Minister proceeded, was that within a very short space of time there had been 48 murders, while 120 attempted murders had failed. Men had been shot down while carrying out the elementary duty of preservation of order. Yet when a box of revolvers was sent to these men to enable them to defend themselves, the trade union threatened to stop the whole traffic of Ireland, notwithstanding the fact that murderers with revolvers in their pockets were carried backwards and forwards on the railways. "We cannot have that," declared Mr. Lloyd George, "whatever it costs, whatever it means."

Furthermore, Mr. Lloyd George went on, the railwaymen had refused to work trains carrying troops. The Government, he

PEACE HOPE ENLIVENED BY ENVOYS' INTERVIEWS

Delegates Of Northern And Southern Parties Exchange Calls

WANG GOES AWAY

Peking Representative Will Propose Terms After Hangchow Trip

TANG OPTIMISTIC

Says "Big Four" Willing To Negotiate On Fair Terms

When General Wang Yi-tang, the Northern peace delegate, returns from his trip to Hangchow in two or three days, definite steps towards the early conclusion of internal peace will be taken. He will get together with Mr. Tang Shao-yi, the Southern peace delegate, and offer terms for domestic tranquility. The latter is willing to negotiate.

"Yes, we are nearing to peace," said Mr. Tang yesterday when interviewed by a representative of THE CHINA PRESS. "We four are quite prepared to resume negotiations with the North." Mr. Tang referred to the four Constitutionalist leaders, Dr. Wu Ting-fang, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, General Tang Chi-yao and himself.

WILL PARLEY

Mr. Tang asserted that in spite of the desire of General Tsen Chun-hsuan to fight the Northern militarists, the reorganised Southern administration will parley with the North. The manifesto discrediting the Tsen administration has relieved the "big four" of all responsibility of the acts of the Southern militarist.

Considerable speculation has been engendered since Mr. Tang and General Wang exchanged visits Sunday. The general presumption is that certain understandings have been arrived at between the two peace delegates, Mr. Tang, however, stated that the greetings were entirely personal as General Wang had known Mr. Tang ever since the latter was Governor of Manchuria in 1907 when General Wang was one of the Brigade Commanders at Kirin.

CONFERENCE PLANNED

Mr. Tang, however, admitted that when General Wang returns from Hangchow, they will get together informally and discuss the peace terms. He does not know how soon the resumption of the conference will take place but assures THE CHINA PRESS that no time will be wasted once it is resumed to effect an early conclusion of the internal dispute.

General Wang left Shanghai Sunday night immediately after Mr. Tang had returned his call. He said that he was going to Hangchow for pleasure. He had only been in Hangchow once before and wanted to see it again.

General Wang's call on Mr. Tang followed after the exchange of notes on the recent manifesto which was reported in THE CHINA PRESS.

GENERAL LI DEPARTS

General Li Lieh-chun, representing Tuchun Tang Chi-yao of Yunnan, left Shanghai for Hongkong Sunday night. During his absence, Mr. Hsu Yuan-hou, former Taoyin of Shanghai, will act as representative of the Yunnan Military Governor.

General Li will proceed from Hongkong to Yunnan where General Tang will despatch him, it is understood, to the Szechuen front, where severe fighting between Tang's troops and those of General Hsiun Ko-wu has already taken place.

TSEN APPOINTS WEN TO REPLACE TANG

According to a telegram received here last night, General Tsen Chun-hsuan, representing the remnant of the Southern Government, appointed Mr. Wen Tsung-yao to replace Mr. Tang Shao-yi on Sunday, following the receipt of the manifesto issued by the "big four" at Shanghai.

Wen, it will be remembered, was recently appointed Minister of Foreign Affairs to succeed Dr. Wu Ting-fang by an order issued by General Tsen. Wen is also Commercial Commissioner of Pukow, a Northern appointment.

General Wang Yi-tang, however, has already telegraphed Peking to say that Tsen could not represent the South and had not the appointive power.

(Reuter's Service)

Shanghai, June 6.—Reuter is authoritatively informed that for the first time since his arrival in Shanghai last September, General Wang I-tang Chief, Northern Peace Delegate, called on Mr. Tang Shao-yi, Chief Southern Peace Delegate, yesterday afternoon and had a long and intimate conversation with him on the peace question. This morning Mr. Tang Shao-yi returned General Wang I-tang's call and again in the afternoon visited the Chief Northern Delegate at Hardoon's Garden.

Although the details of what transpired at these three interviews are not revealed, it can be stated that the two leaders are working together in the closest accord for the reconciliation of North and South.

declared most emphatically, could not possibly agree to the action of any section discriminating against Government traffic or accept any decree issued to any body, however powerful, denying to the Government the essential facilities for carrying out its functions.

DON'T BELIEVE IT

Mr. Lloyd George said that he declined to believe that the National Union of Railwaymen would embark on a policy which the Trade-Union Congress had refused to sanction in connection with another very important matter of public policy.

An Irish member of the deputation suggested that it might be possible to bring the Government and a section of the Irish people together through the trade union movement in Britain, and he hoped that the National Union of Railwaymen would move in that direction.

Mr. J. H. Thomas said that he recognised that to support the strikers in Ireland meant a declaration of war on the Government.

"RETURN TO WORK"

London, June 4.—Mr. J. H. Thomas, political secretary of the Railwaymen's Union, has telegraphed requesting the Irish strikers at Dublin to resume work pending the trade union conference at Bristol on June 15.

Mr. Thomas states that his Executive met the Prime Minister yesterday and decided to ask for special British and special Irish trade union conferences, to try to bridge the gulf between the Irish people and the Government.

According to Mr. Thomas, Mr. Lloyd George, replying, expressed regret at the attitude of the Irish railwaymen and stated that the Government could not tolerate any discrimination with regard to various classes of goods. The Government, the Prime Minister added, was bound to take every necessary step to maintain order.

Kiang is Director of the Department of Physiological Chemistry at the Union Medical School at Tsinan and there are many others who have taken a leading place in their profession.

PIONEER INSTITUTION

In this announcement of the Medical School it may be interesting to give a short review of the development of the school, as St. John's University was a poineer institution in the work of medical education.

The foundation was laid nearly forty years ago when Dr. H. W. Boone trained a number of young Chinese to become his assistants in the work of St. Luke's Hospital, Shanghai, of which he was in charge. In 1896, on the re-organisation of St. John's College, as it then was, a medical department was formed with the wide purpose of not only training men to be hospital assistants, but also of qualifying them to practice independently as physicians and surgeons. The course lasted four years, and a diploma, not a degree, was given to those who passed the final examinations. Some of these early students are still holding their own as successful practitioners.

When the College was incorporated as a University in 1906, and empowered to grant medical degrees, the course was lengthened to five years. In order that the students might be better qualified to receive the degree, the scheme of instruction was raised to a higher standard, and graduates were strongly advised to spend at least one year in hospital and post-graduate work, before venturing to start the independent practice of medical and surgery.

GENERAL EDUCATION

Furthermore, as it was held that a sound general education should precede the study of medicine, the rule was made that students before being accepted as matriculants, must present certificates from a recognised college or scientific school showing the completion of at least two years' work of college grade, or pass an equivalent examination.

In 1914, by the terms of an agreement between the trustees of the Pennsylvania Medical School, formerly of Canton, China, and the trustees of St. John's University, Shanghai, the two schools were united under the title, "The Pennsylvania Medical School, being the Medical Department of St. John's University."

Since 1901, when the first class of medical students was graduated, fifteen students have received medical diplomas, and twenty-five have received medical degrees. Altogether forty students have entered the medical profession from St. John's. There have been eight classes with an average of five students in each class.

PRE-MEDICAL COURSE

To further facilitate the entrance of Chinese students to the medical profession a special pre-medical course is now given in the University.

The main object is to give a sound medical training to Chinese students who are well prepared to enter the medical profession. China's need for such men is very great, but it has very few first class medical schools. Shanghai has peculiar advantages as a center of medical education. It is under foreign control, there is more freedom in medical affairs, its Chinese population is drawn from every province in the country and being a great sea-port ample opportunities are given for the study of all diseases to be found in China. The Medical School of St. John's University even now is doing an important work, but when developed to its full strength, its work and influence will be correspondingly greater.

been dormant since being ousted by the Kwangtung militarists, but has been recruiting in Chihli and is said to have a good fighting force.

DEMANDS EXPENSES

Chang has also made a demand on the Central Government to pay his military expenses. He says he already owes his troops $10,000,000, not including the moneys advanced by Feng Yu-hsiang, $300,000; Fan Kuo-chang, $800,000 and Chang Chung-chang $1,300,000.

The threat of General Chang Tso-lin, the bandit-Tuchun, to march into Peking has created a great deal of restlessness in the capital. Although the police are inclined to be censorious in the matter of the local press reporting the Hunan battle, rumors are current that Chang will start a monarchial movement in conjunction with Chang Hsun, who is now in Mukden. It will be remembered that Chang was a great sympathiser of the notorious monarchist.

BRITISH PREMIER EXPLAINS STAND ON SOVIET PLEA

Answers Queries Regarding Krassin's Presence In London Just Now

NOT A GERMAN AGENT

Washington Will Not Give Passports For Russia To Commerce Party

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 3.—In the House of Commons today, replying to Mr. W. C. H. Gritten (Independent Unionist) with regard to his conversation with M. Krassin, Mr. Lloyd George recalled that the Supreme Council at San Remo on April 26 decided that Allied representatives should meet M. Krassin and the other Russian trade delegates, with the exception of M. Litvinoff, in London as soon as possible. He stated that M. Krassin, besides being the head of the delegation representing the Russian co-opefative organisations, was also a Minister in the Soviet Government and therefore was doubtless acting in the name and under the authority of the Soviet Government.

NOT GERMAN AGENT

Replying to Brigadier-General George L. Palmer, (Coalition Unionist) Mr. Lloyd George said that he did not think that M. Krassin had been originally a German agent. He was associated with a German electrical firm but he was a Russian.

Replying to another question from Mr. Gritton, Mr. Lloyd George said that the Government wanted to clear away certain questions before it undertook negotiations, for example the questions of prisoners to which he had already referred. The Government also wanted guarantees that British interests in the East and at home would not be attacked while negotiations were in progress. After these questions had been cleared up negotiations with regard to trade would be conducted by representatives of all the Allied Governments. Representatives of the French and Italian Governments were then in London.

NO FRENCH FEAR

Replying to Brigadier-General Palmer, the Premier said that he was not aware that there was great perturbation in France. The mere fact that certain French newspapers were trying to foment trouble between two friendly Allied countries whose friendliness was essential to the interests of the world did not prove French perturbation.

'PERPLEXING'

London, June 4.—It is understood that a special Cabinet meeting last evening discussed policy with regard to the negotiations with M. Krassin. The situation is described as distinctly perplexing.

The meeting of the permanent Committee of the Supreme Economic Council, which was to have been held today, has been postponed until Monday at the instance of the British Government owing to the necessity for Cabinet consultation. It is assumed that an unforeseen contingency has arisen.

A Brussels paper learns that M. Krassin has deposited £1,000,000 at a large London bank.

REFUSES PASSPORTS

Washington, June 4.—The State Department has refused to grant passports to enable a commission from the Chambers of Commerce of the United States to go to Russia to study the question of the resumption of trade.

Officials of the Department explain that, in spite of the fact that other countries are negotiating with M. Krassin, the policy of the United States Government with regard to trade with Russia is unchanged and will not necessarily be influenced, even should Great Britain modify her attitude.

It is not expected, however, that the State Department will oppose the proposed visit of the Commission to Europe to study the resumption of trade with Russia.

Foreigners May Buy U.S.A. Ships, Says Committee

Merchant Marine Bill Sent Back By House—Claims Caucus Exceeded Authority

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 3.—The Merchant Marine Bill, which was today agreed to by the joint committee of the Senate and the House of Representatives, permits the sale of American ships to foreign buyers, if, after diligent search, the Shipping Board is unable to dispose of them to Americans.

The bill also requires 75 percent of the stock of American companies, engaged both in coastwise trade and foreign commerce to be American-owned.

No time-limit is fixed for the disposal of the ships. American buyers are given fifteen years and foreign buyers ten years in which to complete payments.

Foreigners will pay five and Americans six percent interest to the Shipping Board. The price must equal the cost of production at the time of sale, less depreciation.

EXCEEDED AUTHORITY

Washington, June 5.—The Merchant Marine Bill has been sent back to the joint conference Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives as the result of a ballot, taken in the House of Representatives, which ruled that the Committee had exceeded its authority by making changes in the amount to be appropriated for new construction.

The original amount of the appropriation, $50,000,000, was cut in half by the conference committee.

NEW COMPANY

New York, June 3.—The United Mail Steamship Company, which has leased 13 ex-German passenger steamers for a trans-oceanic service, will be an entirely American concern.

The company's passenger service will begin in July. The routes will be from New York to Southampton, Cherbourg, Bremen and Danzig and from Boston to Queenstown.

HAVANA NEEDS SUGAR!

(Reuter's Service)

Havana, June 5.—The Chamber of Commerce has petitioned the Cuban Government to withhold 40,000 lbs. (Editor's note—This message came by radio and may mean "tons") of sugar from export, to prevent a domestic shortage.

Banks have failed and the answer has been:

Aspiration to break into Society with a capital "S."

Railroads have gone into the hands of a receiver, clerks have looted department store cash tills, girls have run away from home, there have been elopements, divorces, murders and gossip—

And the answer has been the same.

But it remained for two Shanghai Chinese coolies to set the new record.

This is the story of why Wong Tung-tze and Kee Sing-loong are to appear in the Mixed Court next Monday on a charge of having wilfully, maliciously and otherwise feloniously stolen, removed and converted to their own uses and purposes a quantity of iron stakes and stanchions.

The ambitious coolies surveyed the Clubhouse and Grounds of the Country Club with speculative eyes. And then they invaded the holy precincts without being proposed and seconded.

Fearing that they would never have an opportunity to make another visit they decided to take home with them a souvenir of the occasion.

That's why they uprooted a tennis court and packed it off to a junkshop.

Pootung Has Two Rice Riots; Cheap Exchanges Open

Crowds thronged the two cheap exchanges yesterday and Sunday where over 100 piculs were sold at the reduced rates during the first two days.

In deference to the requests of the members of the gentry in the various districts of Shanghai Magistrate Shen is contemplating the establishment of more exchanges. The Chamber of Commerce has been instructed to raise the necessary funds for the establishment of ten more depots, five in Nantao and Chapei and the other five in Pootung.

CHEKIANG PROTESTS

A number of Chekiang merchants have claimed the 14 carloads of rice ordered to be confiscated by the Civil Governor of Kiangsu. They say that the goods were being consigned to respectable merchants and were not being smuggled to Japan. They have elected Mr. Wang An-fu to come to Shanghai and approach the local organisations to allow them to be released.

The rice, however, was examined yesterday by the Magistrates of Shanghai and Sunkiang prior to being sent to the cheap exchanges to be sold to the poor.

A dramatic incident was staged when the inspection took place at the South Station of the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway. The quality of the rice was the subject of the dispute.

DEATH THREAT

A certain Sunkiang representative, before even seeing the cereal, threatened that if any one pronounced the rice as Anhui rice he would be put to death. He was immediately challenged by representatives from other cities and a fight ensued. The military police then intervened.

After the brawl, the inspection took place. Four representatives of the Rice Guild found the goods to contain the early crops of Kiangsi and products from Anhui. The verdict was contested by the Sunkiang delegates, who authorised four other rice experts to examine the same rice. The latter found it to be Kiangsu rice.

A general argument followed and the two magistrates ruled that the Civil Governor of Kiangsu should send a deputy down to give the final verdict.

British Board Grants Demands Of R. R. Workers

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—The report of the National Wages Board on the claims of the railwaymen for an increase of £1 a week, grants advances in wages varying from four shillings to eight shillings and sixpence weekly for different grades in urban districts; and from two shillings to three shillings and sixpence in rural districts.

These increases are in addition to the extra two shillings a week under the sliding scale arrangement. The men's claims in respect of overtime, Sunday and night duty are rejected.

Note: The sliding scale gives an automatic increase of one shilling a week for every five points the cost of living advances according to the Board of Trade periodical returns.

Toothache!

To those who have experienced it, the mere thought of the word brings fear and anxiety. The tormenting, lightning-like pains following the slightest touch of the decayed tooth, and the dull, agonising pain which robs one of sleep and lessens the capacity for mental and physical exertion are sufficient to drive one to despair.

The best remedy for the relief of toothache as of all other pains due to the nerves is:

TIFFIN HELD BY SCHOOL ALUMNI

Old Students Of Elgin Road Institution Have First Social Gathering

The first social gathering of the Alumni Association of the Public School for Chinese, Elgin Road, was successfully held Sunday. The function took the form of a tiffin at the M. Y. San Restaurant. The hosts were the officers and committees of the new organisation. About 50 attended, including the headmaster, Mr. G. S. Foster Kemp, members of the teaching staff and of the association.

The chairman of the association presided. In welcoming the guests, he said that since the inauguration of the association five weeks ago, the executives have met and discussed plans to carry out the aims of the society. At the beginning, the association should carry on its work step by step and not to take big leaps. The organisation was yet young, he said, and the assistance and co-operation of the staff and the members were anxiously solicited.

Mr. Kemp, after being introduced as "the grand old man who has served the school untiring for the last 16 years," expressed his appreciation of the hospitality o the alumni. He made touching references of the loss of Mr. S. Rayner, who sacrificed his life during the world conflict and commended on the new society for adopting a cautions policy.

The association will hold a general meeting at the school Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock when honorary members will be elected and the question of the Rayner memorial will be brought up.

scope, whilst Korea was relegated t a subordinate position and clearly earmarked for annexation; (c) tha the third agreement introduce into the preamble the definite state ment having in view the importan changes which have taken place in the situation, etc. and then de finitely dropped all reference in th numbered articles to either Korea or the Indian frontier, because act to which Russia's assent had been obtained had made mutual pledge regarding these matters superfluous

CHINA DISTRUSTS

"In view, then, of the fact tha beneath the framework of what is on the surface a self-denying or dinance, vital and far-reaching changes have acquired the sanction of the high contracting parties, Chinese opinion is not unnaturally distrustful of any renewal of this agreement, all men holding that China has suffered enough from its operation during the world war in the matter of Shantung.

"Furthermore, as the formal ratification of the Austrian treaty has made China a member of the League of Nations, which she assumes was created in good faith, she is advised that a contract regarding her affairs between other members of the League cannot be entered into without her prior consent has been obtained. Article 10 being a sufficient guarantee tha her territorial integrity will b respected.

"So far China has not received from Britain a reply to her memorandum. She is anxious for tha reply so that she may address ar identical note to Japan and establish definitely the national attitude on a question vital to the peace and prosperity of her people."

the several sections of the Chinese Community, with a view to the selection of at least five Chinese residents who are considered suitable for nomination to membership of the Chinese advisory committee, who shall be as representative as possible of the whole of the Chinese Community."

ISSUE CIRCULAR

After deliberating over the message for over a month, the Chamber sent out a circular, which said in part:

"It was decided at our meeting that since the Chamber of Commerce is a commercial institution, we could only elect from our member-organisations people who possess the necessary qualifications to serve as advisers for selection; that the other organisations whose nature is not commercial, we are not in position to notify; that we are to write to our member-organisations to effect the said election by choosing a few men out to represent them; and that we will gather all the names of the elected to send to the Council.

"We are writing this to you in accordance with the decision reached by our meeting. Please have the election done within a week, and have the names sent to us as soon as possible."

Various local organisations and guilds protested. All of these demanded a general election and branded the action of the chamber as "monopolising the rights secured by the local residents."

The reply of the Cantonese guild was interesting. It reads:

"Upon receipt of your letter regarding the nomination of a Chinese Advisory Committee, we held a meeting of directors of this guild and discussed the matter at length.

COMMAND RESPECT

"It was the unanimous opinion of the board that as the proposed establishment of the Chinese Advisory Committee is in the interests of the civic rights of the Chinese residents in the Settlements, those nominated should command the respect and have the confidence of their electors as a whole in order that they may properly represent their constituencies. This being the case, they should be elected according to some regulations to be worked out and framed later on. Instead of being appointed by a few commercial organisations or unions.

"Although this guild is a public organisation representing over 100,000 Cantonese who form but a part of the whole number of Shanghai residents, there are still numerous bodies or individuals who are ratepayers and are, therefore, entitled to vote.

"Moreover it is intimated in the Council's communication to your chamber that the "Committee should be as representative as possible of the whole of the Chinese community." This shows that the advisors should be elected by the ratepayers as a whole.

"Therefore, this guild considers it improper to encroach upon the voting rights of so many others by nominating a few persons as you request.

"No mention is made as to the procedure for the election or nominations. We consider it very important that some uniform system should be devised and announced for the general information of the public.

"In closing we would state that it is impossible that all matters concerning the election can be carried out within one week."

CONOB PLAYERS SPRING SURPRISE

Shipping Board Seamen Make Shanghai Players Extend Themselves To Win

Although sent to the cleaners' by a score reading thirteen to six, the nine collected from the crew of the Shipping Board vessel West Conob surprised the diamond artists of the Shanghai Club by the game exhibition of uphill playing Sunday afternoon at the usual stamping ground devoted to baseball.

The West Conobs taking first at the bat led off like a million dollar aggregation. Aided and abetted by "Brad" Crow th' not only pounced on Morrill who was flinging 'em for Shanghai, but treated that gentleman very unkindly.

Nelson first man up for the visitors looked a first one in the face and then clouted said fast one a mile for three bases. With one down young Mr. Crow stepped to the plate and "bunted" one out to the flower garden in center field. Result two runs.

Shanghai becoming peeved at such unusual behavior on the part of strangers vented their wrath on the Shipping Board gunner. When the smoke of the bombardment cleared away the score read five to two. The Mariners threatened to "almost" tie the score several times, but dumb base running and the necessary punch from the batter in each case prevented. Shanghai gathered their runs due as much to errors as hard hitting.

For a team that had as little practice as the West Conobs the game was a very creditable performance on their part.

There will be the usual Tuesday and Thursday practice games this week as well as games Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

Brown and Chapman handled the game very well.

Lawn Bowls

BY "SKIP"

England had a rough house on Saturday when she met the rest of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club. Forty-two of the best was the difference at the declaration of the poll in favor of the Scots, Australians, Canadians, Americans and Irishmen. Such was the downfall of a truly representative body of an ancient and historical bowling country. Poor Drake! How he would have shuddered had he been present to have heard the scores read out. Gavin Campbell as usual headed the list of winners, his rink having a margin over W. Gater's of 22 points. This in conjunction with J. T. Disselduff's win over H. H. Fowler practically sealed the fate of the bull dogs.

On Sunday the real goods were on tap when all the local bowlers shaped up in a game to the tune of 80 players instead of 72 as originally arranged for. The Lawn Bowls Club green was a picture while this game was in progress and had there been two more rinks engaged (as happened two years ago) the whole of the available playing space would have been occupied. There were some funny scores too, especially that of the winning four that soaked that fine combination of Ferrier, Buckley, Rush and David to the tune of 30 points to 6. Percy Robinson's team it was that did the damage; on paper they did not look such a strong lot either. Besides the worthy skip himself there were Poignand, Smith and Marshall, and of the three the most noteworthy was the last named who came into prominence last season as Captain of the crowd that went to Hongkong. Smith is a newcomer and only took up the game two weeks ago. This should be a great incentive to the new blood to have a go at the big things.

Mr. Gavin Campbell, the President of the Lawn Bowls Association, presented a set of four spoons to the winners at the conclusion of the game amidst hearty cheers from a large crowd of spectators. An extra rink had to be made up on the ground at the last moment owing to several players turning up who had not given notice of their intention to play. This is all very nice, and shows a keen interest but it would be better if intending players were to put their names down on the lists provided as it saves the officials a lot of work and also prevents disappointment. This applies to inter-club matches in particular.

Next Saturday the Lawn Bowls Club will commence its series of club championships with the first round of the Rink Competition and the Junior Golf Club will do likewise. There will be six rinks engaged at Hongkew Park but up to the present the full plan of the Lawn Bowls Club has not come to hand.

The draws for the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Association Championships take place tonight. This is when bowls begins in earnest and everybody is really serious and no one can afford to treat the game in a "jocular" manner.

Next Sunday Yangtszepoo will be at home to the Junior Golf Club at Wayside Park and the Lawn Bowls Club will visit the Recs. It will be interesting to see how the latter shine after their two sensational victories a week ago. The Junior Golfites are very hard hit this season as regards players but they will no doubt put up a good fight against the Waysiders. Such men as Burnside, Spring, Critchley, Mackintosh, Hall, etc., make a big difference when they are away from the ranks of a not too numerous group of players. There is, however, plenty of new talent coming along which only requires nursing to become the real thing, and that does not take long when one is enthusiastic.

Seventeen Horses Ran In 'The Oaks'

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—The following were the runners in the Oaks:

Aeon (Childs); Charlebelle (Whalley); Cicerole (Hulme); Cinna (Will Griggs); Lady Peg (A. Smith); Iomelis (Slade); Most Beautiful (Lane); Polycirrus (Jelliss); Reine de Neige (Leach); Queen of Jest (Robbins); Roselet (V. Smyth); Saffron (Fox); Valescure (E. Templeman); Shy Princess (Donoghue); False Piety (Carslake); Plunkette (Bullock); Tullamore (Scourse).

From the start Valescure settled down in front with Roselet, Charlebelle and Cinna, running level. On rounding Tattenham corner Valescure was still in the lead with Charlebelle second. Close to home Cinna forged to the front but failed to resist the challenge of Charlebelle, who won an exciting race. Shy Princess was fourth past the post. Result:

Charlebelle, (Whalley) . . 1
Cinna, (Will Griggs) . . . 2
Roselet, (V. Smyth) 3

The betting was: 7 to 2 Charlebelle: 2 to 1 Cinna: 25 to 1 Roselet.

Oxford beat Somerset by two wickets.

Morrison's Body Buried At Sidmouth

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 3.—The funeral of Dr. G. E. Morrison took place at Sidmouth today. The service was conducted by the Vicar of Sidmouth, who, in the course of his address, paid a tribute to the late Dr. Morrison and especially to his enthusiastic support of foreign missions. The mourners at the church included Mrs. Morrison and her three sons, the Chinese Minister in London, Sir John Jordan, Sir Richard Dane, Sir Ernest Satow, representatives of the Foreign Office and the Times and the High Commissioner for Australia. The floral tributes included a wreath from the President of the Chinese Republic, bearing the inscription. "In sorrow and gratitude."

PRESIDENT'S SALARY

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, June 5.—Senator Hoke Smith, of Georgia, has introduced a bill in the Senate providing for a reduction of the President's salary from $75,000 to $50,000 a year and also proposing an amendment to the Constitution limiting the Presidency to one term of six years.

Only One Peerage Given By Premier

Prince Albert Made Duke, Earl And Baron; Two New Councillors

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—The Prime Minister's list of Birthday Honors confers only one peerage, namely on Prince Albert who becomes Duke of York, Earl of Inverness and Baron of Killarney.

There are two new Privy Councillors, namely Mr. Stanley Baldwin, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, and Mr. Frederick George Kellaway, Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Munitions.

The appointments to the Order of the Bath include Mr. Herman Norman, the British Minister at Teheran, and formerly Councillor of Embassy at Tokio, who becomes a Companion of the Bath.

KNIGHT OF CROSS

Sir Thomas Robinson, recently Agent-General for Queensland, becomes Knight of the Grand Cross of the Order of the British Empire.

The following are created Knight of the Order of the British Empire: Mr. Howard D'Egville, Secretary of the Empire Parliamentary Association, and Mr. James Elliot, Engineer Adviser to the New Zealand Government.

The following are created Baronets: Captain Hamilton Benn, M. P., Peter Mackie, Chairman of Mackie and Co. Distillers, Ltd., and General Sir Francis Wingate, former High Commissioner in Egypt.

Owing to a telegraphic error it was stated that Mr. F. S. Malan, Minister of Agriculture Union of South Africa, had received the K.C.M.G. in the birthday honors (Colonial Office list).

A correction has now been received, showing that Mr. Malan did not receive a knighthood but was appointed a member of the Privy Council.

Purity Candy Shop Opened To Public

The Number One Purity Candy Shop, the opening of which at 31 Nanking Road near the corner of Kiangsi Road has been announced by Messrs. Margelis and Jovino, gives to Shanghai a new business enterprise in the heart of the retail commercial district in full accord with the best standards.

The new confectionary announces that it will serve candies, chocolates, ice creams and ices of the highest quality and a special feature will be the sanitary arrangements by which Shanghai water used is made pure and safe for consumption. The candy making department is under the direction of Mr. Hoyer, who is a widely known expert in this line.

STOP COAL RATIONING

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 4.—The official rationing of household coal ceases on June 7, while pithead prices will be controlled as hitherto. The control of wholesale and retail prices ceases, but measures have been taken to prevent profiteering. Dealers are urged to build up reserve stocks during the summer and householders are also warned to lay in stocks. The control of coal for export and bunkering still continues.

KEEPERS DEFY LICENCE LAW

Will Move Over To French And Chinese Territories To Dodge Tax

Chinese keepers of sing-song girl houses, it is reported, will defy the new municipal requirements and move over to French and Chinese territory. Several meetings of these keepers have been held in various tea-shops and 42 of them have organised and will raise a fund for the construction of a segregated district in French town. Others will move to Nantao.

Only a few have paid their tax in accordance with the regulations and secured their licenses. The municipal authorities have secured a list of all the objectors and action in the Mixed Court is possible, upon the expiration of the time limit within which to secure the licenses.

TWO HIGHWAYMEN CAUGHT SEEKING OPIUM FROM JAPS

Members Of Notorious Gang In Yangtszepoo Are Given Jail Terms

An organised band of highwaymen that has been terrorising the Yangtszepoo district recently, their chief operations being directed against persons they suspect of attempting to smuggle opium from ships in the harbor, set on a party of ten Japanese early Monday morning and as a result two of the outlaws were sentenced to prison yesterday. One of the men was given a year's term and the other six months. Both are to be expelled.

Five Japanese men and five Japanese women were in the party which was waylaid. They had just come ashore from a launch on which they had sailed down the river to the Katora Maru to bid farewell to friends.

As the Japanese were walking along Minghong Road in a particularly dark spot they were surrounded by a band of about 15 highwaymen. The Chinese asserted that their victims were opium smugglers and demanded that they surrender the drug. When the Japanese protested the robbers began to search them.

Outcries of the victims of the holdup men attracted a C. P. C. who succeeded in capturing one of the robbers. Another C. P. C. caught the second a short time later. Both men were identified by their victims when the case was heard yesterday before British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Loh in the Mixed Court.

Poles Are Victors On Every Front

(Reuter's Service)

Warsaw, June 5.—The following communique is issued here:

The Poles are victorious all along the line. On the right wing the Polish troops are pressing hard on the retreating enemy. Marshal Pilsudski is directing operations between the Dnieper and the Dniester.

A Bolshevik cavalry attack against the Polish lines has been broken. An enemy division has been completely defeated. A brigade of cavalry has laid down its arms. The general situation is excellent.

BOLSHEVIK ATTACK

London, June 4.—A general Bolshevik offensive has been begun between the Pripet and the Dnieper. The Polish advance posts have been driven in, but so far the Bolshevik success is not important. North of the Pripet, Red attacks have been repulsed.

"REDS" DRIVEN BACK

Warsaw, June 5.—The following official communique is issued here: "The Poles, resuming the offensive, have broken the enemy lines, including positions fortified with ferro-concrete, between the Dvina and Borisoff, and have advanced thirty kilometers, driving back the "Reds" in the direction of Bialocerkieff, fifty miles to the south-west of Kieff. The Ukrainians have advanced on the line of the Olazanka River."

Fireworks Along River As Chief Armstrong Goes

Officer's Chinese Friends Stage Demonstration For Detective

Chinese admirers of Chief Detective Officer William Armstrong arranged a demonstration in his honor Sunday evening when he left the Customs Jetty to board the s.s. Katora Maru which is bearing him to his home in the South of Scotland for a seven months vacation. As the Municipal launch, bearing the Chief, made its way down the Whangpoo to the berth of the ship firecrackers were set off all along the banks of the stream, red fire was burned and a general pyrotechnic display made.

The Chief was accompanied to the Jetty by the members of his staff and a delegation went aboard the ship with him. The launch departed at 8 o'clock in the evening.

NINETY MILLION ROUBLES BEHIND ZEMSTVO GOVT.

New Monetary Reform Law Put Into Effect By That Solidarity

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, June 5.—It is stated in well-informed circles here that the gold and silver in the possession of the Vladivostok Zemstvos amounts to 90,000,000 roubles.

Vladivostok, June 6.—The Zemstvo Government today published the text of a monetary reform law which takes effect immediately. The law provides that from today the Far Eastern shall issue new money, in the form of 50 kopecks and 25 and 100 rouble notes, which shall be exchanged for all money in circulation issued during the war at a ration of 1 new for 200 old.

MONEY GUARANTEED

The first issue amounts to 150,000,000 roubles and further issues are permissible, when the Government sanctions them. The new money is guaranteed by a gold, silver and platinum reserve, valued at 71,000,000 gold roubles.

The law states that exchange operations and contracts at foreign values are unlawful, and the transgressor shall be liable to a fine and imprisonment. After ten days from today, the old money will be valueless. Previous contracts are valid on the basis of 1 to 200. The above does not refer to Romanoff or Kerensky money.

Well-informed circles state that the Russian Soviet Government is in accord with this reform.

General Kalmikoff's friends state that, in view of the Japanese demands, the Chinese at Kirin who arrested General Kalmikoff, intend liberating him.

After thirteen hours' fighting at the Suchan coalmines the Russian militia defeated the Hunghutzes.

Peking Militarists Scored By Press

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, June 5.—The Press Conference adjourned today. Among the important resolutions passed were provisions for the appointment of committees to organise a Chinese foreign news service, and a school of journalism and for the organising of the Press Association on a more permanent and active basis.

The Conference, "believing itself competent to express and represent public opinion," declared "illegal, null and void all treaties, laws, loans and additional taxation of the people, enacted by the Peking Militarists and the Government since they had not obtained the sanction and approval of a legal National Assembly."

Chinese Eastern Denies Rumor Of Jap Loan

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 7.—The appointment of the Foreign Advisers, M. G. Padoux, Mr. L. B. Simpson and Dr. J. C. Ferguson, as a special committee to investigate the situation on the Chinese Eastern Railway, has been concluded. The commission will leave for the north at the end of the week.

The report that the Government is negotiating a loan from the Japanese, to finance the Chinese Eastern Railway, is officially denied by the Ministry of Communications.

It is explained that the Government took over control of the railway in order to prevent its use as a weapon by Russian political parties.

The Ministry asserts that it never contemplated sorrowing from foreign sources in the interests of that railway.

NO U. S. DELEGATE

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The United States, replying to the invitation of the League of Nations to send representatives to the Brussels Financial Conference announces that it is unable to appoint an official delegation but is sending unofficial representatives for the purpose of giving information regarding financial and economic conditions in America and obtaining similar information regarding other countries.

ACCIDENT CASE HEARD

Following a hearing in the British Police court yesterday Mrs. Frances Greentree was fined $5 on a charge of careless driving made against her by Mrs. Norah McIntosh, of 9a Hankow Road.

The case grew out of an accident that occurred on Nanking Road near Honan Road on May 29 when a motor car driven by Mrs. Greentree struck the wheel of a carriage in which Mrs. McIntosh was riding, doubling it under the carriage.

SHANGHAI LIFE SUIT IS FILED

The Shanghai Life Insurance Company, Ltd., has been named defendant in a case brought in the British Supreme Court by Mrs. King Chun-kee, the widow of a Portuguese subject. The court ordered a defense to be filed and gave leave to both parties to file further pleadings if necessary.

Mr. K. E. Newman represents the plaintiff while Mr. Duncan McNeill is counsel for the defense. Mr. McNeill said that his client was anxious to have the hearing expedited and he had agreed that it was not necessary to file a statement of the claim. He had drawn up his defense, he said, and had handed the counsel for the plaintiff a copy. He would file the defense shortly.

Particulars on the writ were as follows.

1.—The plaintiff is the wife and legal personal representative of King Chun-kee, deceased, a Portuguese citizen, late of Shanghai, and the defendants are a British (China) registered limited liability company carrying on life insurance business in China with their registered offices situated in Shanghai.

2.—Under a covenant in a deed dated March 10, 1905, the defendants agreed to pay to the said King Chun-kee 2½ percent on the premium income of the said Company for a period of ten years from date thereof.

3.—The defendants have refused to account for and pay to the plaintiff such monies as may be due under the said covenant.

The plaintiff claims:

(1) An account of the said premium income of the said defendant company from March 10, 1905 to the March 10, 1915.

(2) Payment of the amount due.

Fresh From the Ovens—

New Post Toasties represent the most appetizing form in which choice, nutritious Indian corn has ever been prepared.

A new patented process which includes rotary toasting under quick, intense heat gives these flakes a delicious new and distinctive flavour.

The New Toasties are featured by the bubbly appearance of the surface of the flakes—due to this new art of toasting which releases the wonderful new and attractive true corn taste.

New Post Toasties are not "chaffy" in the package; and they don't mush down when milk or cream is added like common "corn flakes."

Cotton Trading Suspended In N.Y.

(Reuter's Service)

An American wireless message from New York (undated) received in Shanghai this afternoon and reported by Reuter's states:

"Trading on the Cotton Exchange has been suspended, owing to confusion regarding the status of the contract under which trading is conducted. It is expected that the President will sign the bill continuing contracts, and that the Exchange will reopen on Wednesday."

Note: The American wireless averages two days in transmission, and the above message was therefore probably despatched from New York on the 5th instant.

Saturday's closing prices on the New York cotton exchange have been duly received in Shanghai. It may be presumed that the decision to suspend business was taken after closing on Saturday.

TEN HOMES TO ACRE

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The Inter-Allied Housing Congress has adopted a resolution demanding a minimum standard of comfort in the home.

With reference to town-planning, resolutions were adopted advocating definite limitation of dwellings per acre, which should not exceed ten, and decentralisation of industries.

Reserves And E.F.E.U. Are Chief's Guests

Assistant Commissioner Is Host 'At Home' To Men In Command

Members of the S. M. P. Reserves and of the E. F. E. U. were guests of Assistant Police Commissioner A. L. Anderson at his residence Sunday. The forces mobilised at Bubbling Well Police Station and, led by the Municipal Band, at 10:30 o'clock marched to the home, in Great Western Road, of the Chief of the reserve forces.

Mr. Charles Shepherd was in charge of the catering and the guests had a most enjoyable time.

In the course of a brief address to the assembled men the assistant commissioner congratulated them on the enthusiasm with which they have performed their volunteer duties in protecting Shanghai in times of stress. He urged that this spirit be kept alive and that every member of the forces do his utmost to win new recruits to the ranks.

Mixed Court Notes

Two members of the gang of shoplifters which has been operating in the Louza district recently were captured and brought before the Mixed Court yesterday. British Assessor Grant Jones and Magistrate Kwan were sitting. Upon conviction of the charge the accused were sentenced to five years imprisonment each and to re-expulsion. One of the men had three previous convictions and the other four.

* * *

A Chinese who was found with 50 counterfeit 20 cent pieces in his possession was sentenced to two years and expulsion.

* * *

Two years imprisonment was the sentence imposed upon a burglar who attempted to enter a house at 260 North Szechuen Road.

* * *

British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Li sentenced a man who was convicted of three burglaries and one larceny to one year's imprisonment. Two persons were accused as receivers of stolen property in connection with this case. One of the men was dismissed and the other sentenced to one month.

KOO COMING HOME

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 7.—Mr. Wellington Koo has informed the Government that he is leaving Paris for America next week, having signed the Hungarian Treaty. Mr. Alfred Sze, the Minister in London, will sign the Turkish Treaty.

'White Terror' Is Real In Hungary

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The British Labor delegation, despatched to Hungary to investigate the allegations of a "White Terror" has reported that terror exists in Hungary.

The Government is unable to control it but many of its acts are so rigorous as to comprise "terror."

The delegation is unable to comprehend the statement of the British High Commissioner, made on February 21, that, "while there is no doubt that there are ill deeds, there is nothing in the way of 'terror.'"

LIM SUM-LING ARRESTED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 7.—Li Sum-ling an official of the Ministry of Finance and a former editor of the Peking Daily News, was arrested on Friday evening on a charge of having given publicity to official documents. Li Sum-ling is a well-known figure in the Far East.

U. S. MARINE KILLED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 7.—Sergeant Kivett and Private McNulty of the American Marines were returning to camp from the rifle range yesterday afternoon when the chauffeur drove the car against a slab on the roadside and overturned it. Sergeant Kivett has since died from his injuries and Private McNulty is in a serious condition.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given your physician know of what to your children unless you or ... is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CRANDALL, M. D.,
Buffalo, N. Y.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial in the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D.,
Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D.,
Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

Mystery of the Scarred Heiress And Her Tragic End

What Is the Secret That Explains the Death of Miss Jeanne De Kay, Long Vanished Daughter of the Spectacular American Multi-Millionaire, in the Cold Waters of Lake Michigan?

Dorothy Arnold, Whose Inexplicable Disappearance Is Less Strange Than Miss De Kay's Vanishing and Mysterious End.

Miss Jeanne De Kay, the Long Missing Heiress of Millions, the Discovery of Whose Body Has Just Ended a World-Wide Search.

After Having Disappeared for Four Months and Being Searched for Throughout the World the Body of Miss Jeanne De Kay Was Found in the Cold Waters of Lake Michigan.

Was She the Victim of the Vengeance of Her Father's Mexican Entanglements—Kidnapped and Sent to Her Death in Cruel Reprisal?

Or, Brooding Over the Scars of Smallpox That Disfigured Her, Did She Become Insane and Throw Herself Into the Lake? Again, as Shown by the Picture on the Left, She May Have Hidden Under Another Name, Worked Among the Poor and Afflicted, and Failing to Find the Happiness She Had Hoped For, Fearing to Confess Failure, Have Destroyed Herself.

FOUR months ago Jeanne De Kay, the young daughter of John W. De Kay, the multi-millionaire packing king, vanished from the world's sight and knowledge as completely as if the Chicago street on which she was last seen had suddenly opened beneath her feet and swallowed her.

After a world-wide search, her body has just been found floating in Lake Michigan.

But the finding of the girl's body has not dispelled the mystery. Indeed, a disappearance that seemed to be as strange as that of Dorothy Arnold, the New York society girl who dropped out of sight several years ago, turns out to be far stranger.

For the possible explanations of Miss Arnold's disappearance are comparatively few and all quite simple. But for the tragedy of Jeanne De Kay there are many possible explanations—some of them more surprising than any novelist or playwright has told, yet all possessing elements of plausibility that are most convincing.

Was she a victim of morbid vanity?

Her face was scarred by smallpox. Over this is is known that Miss De Kay brooded. It is even said that those scars had caused her to be disappointed in love. Driven mad by morbid regret for lost beauty, did she throw herself into the lake? Many of her friends believe this may be true.

Or was poor little Jeanne De Kay the victim of the international political intrigues in which her father has long played a prominent part? There are many who think so. They believe either that she was murdered in revenge for some real or fancied grievance against her father, or that terror of these agents, who she thought were pursuing her, drove her to suicide.

Still a third theory hold that Jeanne De Kay's disappearance was caused by a sudden disgust for the life of ease and luxury she had hitherto led, and a feeling that she could find true happiness by earning her living, as so many other less fortunate girls had to do. Acting on this impulse she may have renounced her claims to wealth, have changed her name, and then have lost herself among the working women of Chicago—either as a nurse, a shopgirl or a humble domestic servant.

But, these friends argue, this sudden transformation may have proved too difficult. In the sphere of life so strange to her she may have failed to find the happiness that she sought. Too proud to go back to her old ways and confess herself defeated, might she not have sought death as the easiest way out of her perplexities?

It seems very unlikely that Jeanne De Kay could have had her mind fixed on suicide when she walked out of Hull House on the night of December 30. If so, why was she at such pains to take along her toothbrush? The thought of suicide—if such it was—must have come later, after who knows what strange adventures and hardships.

Whatever the answer, it may now never be known. Murder or suicide—the secret is locked up in the dead brain of the blue-eyed, unhappy girl whose body the crew of a police boat saw floating upon the icy waters of the lake not far from Chicago—as though it were striving to make its way back.

And here enters another factor of the mystery. How long the body may have been in the water cannot be definitely told within a period of a month. Outside of that all must be guesswork. The temperature of the waters has been so low that no real difference could be discovered between a corpse submerged within them four months ago and one within a month ago.

Identification of the body was made by Miss Gertrude Howe Britton, of Hull House, in which Miss De Kay was a worker when she vanished. Miss Britton has been one of the most unremitting searchers for the girl.

There are, as has been said, a great number of possible explanations of the strange fate of Jeanne De Kay. Which of them would you select as the answer to the riddle if you were a detective charged with the task of clearing up the mystery?

Before you could reach a decision you would need to know as much as possible about the girl herself—her personality, her ambitions, her past life, and particularly what she had been doing immediately preceding her disappearance. And you would also do well to give more than a passing glance at the tangled web of intrigue and adventure which has for many years woven itself about her father.

When a young man John W. De Kay drifted from the editorship of a small Illinois newspaper to Mexico. The warm friendship which he formed with President Diaz enabled him to obtain concessions that quickly filled his pockets with millions. He gained almost a complete monopoly of the Mexican meat business and was known as "The King of the Packers."

But when Diaz died and Madero came into power De Kay lost the political influence that had made him wealthy. He sold his Mexican holdings for $5,000,000 and went to Europe to live. There, it is said, he served as Huerta's confidential agent and bought for him large quantities of rifles and cartridges.

Much importance is attached by those who believe that Jeanne De Kay was murdered or that she was driven to death by fear of being kidnapped and held as a hostage to the important role her father has played in the Mexican plots and counter-plots of recent years. The bitter enmities that animate Mexico's rival factions would not, it is thought, stop at the murder or kidnapping of an innocent girl in order to be revenged on a foe or to force some concession from him.

If such desperate conspirators there were they doubtless knew the girl well, for she had spent many years in Mexico. And they knew, too, that she was her father's favorite child and that they could strike no harder blow at him than by bringing her to harm.

It was while living in the City of Mexico that Jeanne De Kay was stricken with smallpox. The disease left her face badly pitted. The greatest specialists were appealed to in vain—nothing that science could suggest was able to restore the satiny pink-and-white beauty of her cheeks.

For years after this Jeanne was a sad, lonely girl, forever brooding over the ugly disfigurement she was doomed to carry through life. Although more recently she had seemed more reconciled to her affliction, keen students of feminine character believe that she still nursed her sorrow in secret. Finally, they think, it became so unbearable that it drove her to suicide after, perhaps, a vain attempt to find forgetfulness in the workaday world.

There is reason to believe that her vanity's wounds were made still more grievous by a shattered romance. In France, just after the signing of the armistice, Jeanne is said to have met a young American officer. It was a case of love at first sight on her part, and for a time it seemed to be so on his. But soon the officer's interest in the heiress began to wane; she saw him less and less; finally even his letters stopped coming; and presently she heard that he was to marry a Parisian maiden.

Jeanne was broken-hearted. Her oversensitive nature convinced her that it was because she was not like other girls—because her face was pitted—that her love had not been returned. She could not bear to remain longer in Europe with only idle luxury to distract her mind, so she obtained her father's reluctant consent to come to America and engage in settlement work under the famous Jane Addams at Hull House, Chicago.

Grief over this unhappy love affair, added to years of brooding over her lost beauty—may this not have proved a burden so intolerable that death seemed welcome?

Exactly the same causes, it is argued, might have led her to seek oblivion in life rather than death. Finding it impossible to live longer where there would always be everything to remind her of what might have been, is it not quite possible that she decided to seek forgetfulness by cutting herself off from family, friends and fortune and joining the great army of working girls?

Did the enemies who sought through her to harm her father finally encompass her death? Or was she driven to suicide by her failure to find forgetfulness in the way she had expected?

In support of the theory that before she found her way into the cold waters of Lake Michigan she had tried for a time to fight the world single-handed and alone, associates of Jeanne at Hull House recall how eager she was to do the most menial kinds of housework—tasks which an heiress would hardly be expected to enjoy. The day before she disappeared she bought herself aprons and dust caps and pleaded to be allowed to take over the duties of a man who cleaned the library.

Jeanne undoubtedly inherited from her father many of his socialistic instincts. It was to satisfy these that she took up her residence at Hull House and began an apprenticeship in social service work under the guidance of Miss Addams.

Perhaps her brief experience at Hull House convinced her that she could be of greater service to humanity by hiding her identity under an assumed name and going out to work alone and unaided among the poor and afflicted. Such a spectacular and daring move as this would be one that would appal most girls, but it is nothing more than might be expected from the daughter of a man of John W. De Kay's temperament.

His career, not only in finance and international politics, but in literature as well, has always been characterized by a passion for the surprising, the unusual. Among his literary achievements is a play entitled "Judas," which he wrote for Sarah Bernhardt and in which the betrayer of the Saviour is raised in the most astonishing fashion to the place of hero. This drama proved so shocking to the religious sentiments of the American people that its production in this country was forbidden.

But what of the life the little heiress was leading just before she faded so strangely from the world's sight? Is there in the events of those few weeks no clew to her death?

Jeanne De Kay left Europe on the Italian steamship Duca d'Aosta and landed in New York December 19. She was accompanied by her brother John, who, after escorting his sister to Chicago, was to enter the University of Virginia.

The twenty-year-old heiress and her brother were subjected to a searching examination by the agents of the Department of Justice who met the steamship. This was done, so the secret service men said, because they believed De Kay, the father, had been an extensive buyer of munitions and also the author of several radical books. But the young people gave a satisfactory account of themselves and were allowed to go on to Chicago.

Jeanne settled down with apparent enjoyment to her work at Hull House. Early in the evening of December 30 she was seen to leave the house, and from that moment all trace of her is lost. Search of her room revealed that besides the clothes she wore she took none of her personal belongings other than a small purse containing $2 and a tooth brush.

After the girl's disappearance her brother recalled the fact that on the voyage to America Jeanne had become very intimate with two Rumanian ladies—Mrs. Ernestino Salter and her daughter Didy. When search for them was instituted it was found that Mrs. Salter had already returned to Rumania. Didy, who was finally located in New York after considerable difficulty, denied any knowledge that would throw light on Jeanne De Kay's whereabouts or the reasons for her disappearance.

But while the police were searching for the Salters there came into their hands a cablegram from the father of the missing heiress, which said among other things: "Very anxious. Jeanne confided in Rumanian lady. Stop."

What was the precious information which Mr. De Kay believed his daughter had given away? Whom was he so anxious to stop?

Curiously enough, the relatives and closest friends of the missing girl were not at all agreed as to whether she was alive or dead or what had become of her.

Judge Thomas Z. Lee, of Providence, R. I., the attorney who represents John W. De Kay in this country and undoubtedly echoed his client's own belief, was confident that the girl committed suicide.

A cousin of Jeanne—Charles De Kay, the distinguished New York art critic—was equally positive that she was alive and well and was keeping out of sight of her own volition. "She's a clever little miss," he said, "and she will reappear when she has made good at whatever she has set her mind on."

The brother, John D Kay, Jr., was of the same opinion, but he thought it was worry over her facial blemishes rather than the desire to demonstrate that a pampered heiress can make her way in the world which impelled her to run away. "If she had been going to kill herself she would never have bothered to take along her toothbrush," the young man argued.

Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, a social worker who was closely associated with Jeanne at Hull House, was until the discovery of the body unable to make up her mind whether the girl was alive or dead. Her hope that the former was the case was based largely on the eagerness she constantly showed for an opportunity to "work with her hands."

Can it be that the answer to the riddle of unhappy little Jeanne De Kay's fate will some day be found in a Mexican bandit camp or in the secret archives of some European Government?

MUNICIPAL NOTIFICATION

No. 2715.

SHANGHAI MUNICIPAL COUNCIL 6 PER CENT. STERLING LOAN, 1920.

Amount £750,000

Price of Issue £100 per cent.

UNDER the authority of Resolution VII passed at the Annual Meeting of Ratepayers on April 7, 1920, the Council hereby invites applications for Bearer Debentures (with coupons attached) in the 6 percent. Sterling Loan of 1920, which is issued on the following terms:—

(1) Debentures to Bearer, with Sterling interest coupons attached, will be issued at £100 percent in denominations of £1,000, £500, £100 and £50.

(2) The Debentures of this issue will bear interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum, payable on June 30 and December 31 in each year by sterling demand draft on London at par, or in silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's Shanghai current demand buying rate on London on date of presentation of the relative coupon. The first payment of interest will be made on December 31, 1920.

(3) Applications, accompanied by payment in full, will be received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, on and after May 1, up to and including June 30, 1920, the Council reserving to itself the right of closing the subscription lists on any day previous to June 30, 1920, by Notification in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai.

(4) Payment on application will be accepted in Silver (local currency) at the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation's current selling T.T. rate on London and will bear interest from date of payment, or in Sterling by T.T. or Demand Draft on London. Interest on payments made in Sterling will only accrue from the date on which the relative remittances are received by the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, London.

The cost of all telegrams involved through payment by Sterling T.T. shall be paid by the applicant.

Payment will be acknowledged by Banker's Receipt pending issue of the Debentures.

In the event of any applicant not being allotted the full amount applied for, the amount over-applied for will be repaid in full, plus interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum from the date payment was received in Shanghai or London to the due date of repayment in Shanghai, as notified to the applicant by special notice from the Council.

(5) The Loan will be redeemed at par on June 30, 1950, but may be redeemed by the Council in whole or in part on June 30, 1930, and/or on any subsequent date or dates on which the half-yearly interest is payable, subject to the Council giving six calend months' notice in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai. In the event of any partial redemption of the loan the numbers of the Debentures to be redeemed will be decided by drawing. The numbers of such drawn Debentures will be notified in the Municipal Gazette and Public Press of Shanghai not less than three months prior to the date of repayment.

Application forms can be obtained on and after May 1, from the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, No. 12 The Bund, or from the Treasurer and Comptroller, Finance Department, 24B Kiangse Road, to whom all enquiries should be addressed.

By order.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments especially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per Head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

WEATHER

A new depression formed in Chihli will bring Southerly winds to the North of the Saddles, and probably some rain and local thunderstorms.

Another Phase Of The Anglo-Japanese Alliance Problem

TREND of public opinion anent renewal of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance is rearing new barriers against that proposal. Keen and well-informed observers are rising to their feet in various, widely separated spheres of influence to announce that the Japanese Government is a pigmy in the clutches of a military oligarchy functioning behind the Throne and behind the Cabinet and Parliament. And every time anyone gets up and says this he makes it more difficult for the British Government to renew the Alliance.

Even the leading Japanese dailies and weeklies are forced to admit the truth of Mr. J. O. P. Bland's charges against the Tokio Government, though they desire renewal of the alliance just as earnestly as the Government itself does. Thus, the Asahi, fearing that the fact that the Japanese Government is militaristic, will defeat renewal, turns its guns on its own government and demands radical reconstruction in order that the true national policy, "as represented by the Foreign Office may be brought before the outside world." It describes the Tokio Government as "the incarnation of militarism." And the Herald of Asia says "that in Japan Liberalism has not yet attained to the status of having principles."

Then, following the barriers raised by Mr. Bland, we find the Chairman of the China Association at the annual meeting in London on June 2, directing the attention of the British Government to the representations of British residents in China to the fact that neither the spirit nor the letter of the present alliance is being observed by the Japanese in Shantung.

The state of mind of the British Government is revealed in two Reuter's cables. One dated June 3, forecasts the automatic extension of the present alliance for another year, "owing to lack of time to negotiate the revision necessitated by the elimination of the German influences in the Far East." And in reply to a question in the House of Commons, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, admits that the renewal is under consideration "but the time for a decision had not yet arrived."

The Japanese press, and, we take it, the Japanese diplomats have been clamoring for a renewal of this alliance since early last year. But they have found it difficult to get the ear of the British Government—until now, as the London despatch says, there isn't time within the allotted period, that is until July 13, for complete negotiations.

The truth is, as we see it, that London does not want to renew this alliance at this time. All the ante-bellum foundations for it have been swept away. German and Russian influences have vanished; and it has not served to protect China against the aggressions of Japan. Britain in fact can do something to protect China if she is not allied with Japan, but as a partner of Japan she has not been able to move a finger in that direction. There is, in fact, not one reason why this alliance should be renewed while there are many important ones why it should be categorically repudiated.

Among the latter may be mentioned the general attitude of Australia, Canada and the United States, aside from the ethnological consideration. But more interesting and important still is the new and awakened attitude of the Chinese Government. If you have not read the memorandum issued by the Foreign Office at Peking, which we publish today, we invite you to do so now. China, in that statement declares that "as a member of the League of Nations she is advised that a contract regarding her affairs between other members of the League cannot be entered into without her prior consent having been obtained. Article X being a sufficient guarantee that her territorial integrity will be respected."

How are Britain and Japan to reply to that?

The Business Barometer

(The Nation, New York)

The operations of the United States Steel Corporation are frequently regarded as a business barometer for the whole country. It is perhaps an open question how far such barometer readings are of value in forecasting the future. But, as in the case of the barometer of atmospheric pressure, the record shows clearly what conditions have prevailed in the past. The report for 1919 shows a period of five months at the beginning of the year when business was, as it were, sitting down to catch its breath, rest, and get ready for a new start. A new start was made and the report records "an increasing demand and broadening market for steel products" during the second half of the year. The fresh start was, however, handicapped by shortage in labor, strikes, and insufficiency in transportation facilities. Taking the year by and large production was only up to 75 percent of full capacity. As compared with 1918 there was a falling off in production and a slightly smaller decrease in domestic shipments, but an encouraging increase in foreign shipments. All this is based on tonnage, which, under present monetary conditions, is probably a better guide than money values.

Since the cost of steel and iron enters into many other things, the price-making policy of the corporation is of special interest. The report says that the prices fixed in March, 1919, by the Industrial Board were "fair and reasonable under prevailing conditions," although substantially lower than those quoted "by steel manufacturers generally." They were also less than "the demands of customers for materials would have permitted." This, it is said, accords with the Corporation's policy in the past "in respect of prices under conditions where the necessities of the consumers induce them to bid up the market." The result was an increase in unfilled orders for rolled steel products from 7,379,000 tons at the close of 1918 to 8,265,000 tons at the close of 1919.

The net earnings during the war period tell a remarkable story. We give them in millions: 1915, 75; 1916, 271; 1917, 223; 1918, 137; 1919, 76. These are the amounts available for dividends. The 1917, 1918, and 1919 earnings were lessened by the heavy income and excess profits taxes which were (again in millions): 1917, 233; 1918, 274; 1919, 52. The sharp drop in taxes in 1919 is due to a number of causes, among them reduction in business and increase in expenses, lowering of the rates of the taxes, and allowances for depletion and amortisation of war facilities.

Among the increased costs of operation are increased wages and salaries. These rose during 1919 nearly 15 percent despite the fact that no increases in wage rates were made. That is, the average earnings advanced from $5.38 per day per capita to $6.17 per day per capita. Beginning February 1, 1920, an increase in wages of ten percent came into operation. This is the ninth general increase in wage rates since 1914. It is stated that the increase amounts to 144 percent in wage rates, and that the average of the earnings of all employes has advanced 130 percent. By a rough computation it appears that the average employe was earning $900 a year in 1914 and $1,900 a year in 1919. This advance is approximately equal to the advance in the cost of living, so that, if this is correct, labor in the Corporation's employ is compensated for the fall in the purchasing value of the dollar, although no nearer approach has been made to a living wage.

This leads to the question: how is capital faring? If labor is getting more dollars because they buy less than before the war, is capital also being compensated? Of course the bondholders and the preferred shareholders cannot be given any more dollars than their contracts call for, no matter how low the dollar may go. In 1919 the holders of the common stock received their "regular" five percent dividends and no more, although the year before they got nine percent extra. Still there is a $49,000,000 increase in the aggregate investment figures, which, considering the general conservatism of property valuations, may be set down as part of the year's increase to the common stockholders. It appears, on the whole, that the decrease in the dollar, or what is the same thing, the rise in prices and in wages, is being pretty fully adjusted so far as labor goes, but not so far as old capital is concerned.

Can We Do Anything For Russia?—And On What Terms?

Only Large Scale Credit In International Trading Can Restore Country, As Gold, Platinum And Exportable Golds Are Inadequate

BY JOHN SPARGO
(Author of "Bolshevism" "The Psychology of Bolshevism," "Russia as an American Problem," etc.)

Russia needs help. Russians of all shades of political opinion, Bolsheviki and anti-Bolsheviki alike, want America to give that help. Proletarians, bourgeoisie and peasants; Communists, Bolsheviki, Menshevíki, Populists, Left Social-Revolutionaries, Right Social-Revolutionaries, Constitutional Democrats and Monarchists, in and out of Russia, agree upon this one point only: they all cry to America for friendship and for practical assistance.

And America wants to help Russia. There is no question of that. America is practically as united in sympathy for Russia and a desire to help her as Russia is united in desiring America's aid. President Wilson, Senator Lodge, Mr. Gompers and Mr. Debs; Democrats, Republicans, Socialists and Communists; Chambers of Commerce, labor unions, churches—all are earnestly desirous of helping Russia, if only some practical method of doing so can be discovered or devised. No party, class or group has a monopoly of generous friendship for Russia. In any church or synagogue in America, and in any Chamber of Commerce even, response to any appeal for assistance to the Russian people will evoke sympathetic response quite as sincere and as spontaneous as could be obtained at a Socialist demonstration in Madison Square Garden.

The cynically minded will say that this is a superficial observation; that, with the exception of a few groups with special interest in the Russian question, most of our people do not care anything about Russia or her suffering; that most of our "sympathy for Russia" is only a camouflage for our own selfish interests. Our manufacturers and merchants are hungry for the profits to be derived from trade with Russia, according to this cynical view, and most of the rest of us are concerned because we realise, more or less vaguely, that Russia's plight is a factor in our high cost of living. It is for our own sake that we are interested in Russia.

OUR INTERESTS INVOLVED

It is true, of course, that our own interests are deeply involved in the prostration of Russian economic life. The interests of peoples in modern civilisation are closely interwoven. Russia ceases to supply a large part of Europe with food grains and, as a consequence, the price of bread rises in America. The Russian debâcle becomes a tragedy for many a hardpressed American mother. Russia ceases to export hides and the cost of shoes and all leather goods rises. Her flax is withheld from the world market and as a consequence every American housewife must pay greatly enhanced prices for linen goods.

Before the war Russia furnished more than 85 percent of the flax of the world. In 1913 Irish flax sold in the Belfast market for £54 a ton; in March, 1920, Continental flax went as high as £1,300 a ton! Every economist knows that there cannot be anything like a normal price level until Russian production is restored and her goods begin to flow again into the channels of world trade. Similarly, every student of world politics must see clearly that so long as Russia remains in her chaotic condition there can be no real peace for the world.

There is not the slightest need, therefore, to attempt to conceal or disguise the fact that we have a selfish interest in the Russian problem. Enlightened self-interest is nothing to be ashamed of; it is far better, from every useful point of view, than maudlin sentimentalism. Nothing better could happen, from Russia's point of view, than to have the American people wake up to the fact that the Russian problem is also an American problem, and that Russia must be helped to her feet for the sake of American industry and the American home. Maudlin speeches, resolutions and tears will not help Russia; a practical business move may save her and make her whole. Judge Gary is far more able and competent to help Russia than Mr. Debs—even if Mr. Debs were free instead of being imprisoned.

But when all this has been said with the utmost candor the fact remains that, quite apart from any selfish consideration, in America's attitude toward Russia there is a great deal of unselfish, disinterested sympathy and friendship. In no nation is there now or has there ever been a more generous sympathy for suffering and less fortunate peoples. No nation has ever responded with greater promptitude or more lavish generosity to appeals from the victims of famines, disasters and wars. Whatever else may be said of us, it cannot be charged that we have ever been deaf to the cries of distressed peoples or niggardly in responding to them.

SYMPATHY FOR RUSSIA

For Russia our sympathy is peculiarly keen and great. We do not forget the manifestation of her friendliness toward us in our own time of trouble during the war of the States. We do not forget that we are enormously indebted to her; that but for her sacrifices in the war the heel of the Prussian jack-boot would today be firmly planted upon the neck of civilisation. We do not forget or undervalue her sacrifice—represented, on the human side, by her 9,000,000 casualities—or that her efforts on the eastern front made possible the triumph of the French at the first battle of the Marne and the successful holding of the thin red line a Ypres by the British. During the last quarter of a century prior to the outbreak of the World War the struggle of the Russian people to overthrow tsarism and establish a constitutional democracy found in America ready and generous support. Explain our ideology how you will, the fact is that the apostles of Russian revolutionary socialism were cordially welcomed and generously assisted by all classes of our people, rich and poor, high and low. Here, at least, democratic consciousness triumphed over class consciousness.

And now this people, with whom we have so many ties of friendship, is suffering from the ravages of famine and plague. Amid all the conflicting testimony this fact stands out in bold relief, a heartrending challenge. So many idyllic accounts of Sovdepia have been set before us of late that there is danger of skepticism blinding us to the terrible realities. The accounts of Russian conditions which seep through to the outer world, written by competent and trustworthy Russians of high character, are simply appalling. Even if no such testimony were available, however, we should know that famine conditions must exist over large areas as a result of the breakdown of transportation. That it has broken down we know; it had broken down before the Bolsheviki seized power and any extensive repair has been impossible.

Even Arthur Ransome, in his idealisation of the Bolshevist Utopia, quotes the plaint of Pavlovitch, President of the Committee of State Constructions, as saying: "Now we have to take up rails in one place to lay them in another." All who know anything of the economic structure of Russia know that the breakdown of her railroad transportation system inevitably means famine and plague. We are not dependent upon such inferences, however. We can put inferences aside, together with the testimony of Russian emigres and other anti-Bolsheviki, and confine ourselves to accounts by men obviously friendly to the Bolsheviki. Here, for example, are a few passages from the much-discussed series of articles by Lincoln Eyre:

". . . They have been quite unable to arrest the process of slow starvation. Vitally is at an unbelievably low ebb. The strength to work at even the lighter forms of labor for more than four or five hours a day is non-existent. Resistance to disease is so feeble that the slightest ailment may develop into severe illness. Men die of colds in the head, of vague intestinal disorders, of a pinprick that overnight poisons the thin blood, sometimes simply of exhaustion.

"It may be emphasised forthwith that not more than 3 percent of Russia's population can support life on the provisions obtained through the Government, and that to some 25,000,000 the food question is a matter of life or death. Of these, 4,000,000 in Moscow and Petrograd and perhaps 4,000,000 more in the other big cities and industrial areas are actually starving. . . .

"In Moscow, Petrograd and other industrial centers some 8,000,000 human beings, of whom only a tiny fraction are Bolsheviki, are slowly but surely starving to death. There are abundant food stocks in the south and east, but they cannot be carried in sufficient quantity over the semi-paralysed railroads. Fuel is slightly less scarce than it was two months ago. The lack of heat, however, is helping the food shortage to increase the mortality rate, which is likely to attain 30 percent in Moscow before Spring. Disease is rampant, and the typhus epidemic in Siberia, where Kolchak left many tens of thousands of victims behind him in his retreat, is spreading swiftly westward. Owing to the absence of medical supplies, the epidemic can be combated only by quarantine."

It would be an easy matter to fill many pages with such accounts as the foregoing if it were necessary. No one who knows anything at all of the situation doubts that famine and plague are the real rulers of the principal cities of Russia.

To what or to whom are these conditions due? Can Russia recover by her own unaided efforts? Must the salvation of the country depend upon the more fortunate nations? What ought the policy of these nations to be? Specifically, what ought the policy of our own nation to be? How much can be accomplished by philanthropy? To what extent can trade with Russia solve her problems? How far it is a matter of granting credits and to what extent can such credits be secured? Is there now a government in Russia which rules in such a manner as to make it possible for other civilised governments, including our own, to recognise it and to have with it such relations as are common among governments?

All these questions—and others like them—are inevitable and inescapable. They must be answered before there can be any intelligent policy governing our relations with Russia. But how shall they be answered—and by whom? If our imagination is at once benevolent and unbounded we may believe that to our State Department the answers to all such questions are known. That would indeed be a tour de force of imaginative genius! But, even so, it would not help public opinion very much, and the problem of our Russian policy is too big to be disposed of by any official action which has not behind it the enlightened public opinion of the nation.

HOW GET THE TRUTH

And how shall the average citizen know the truth? How shall he judge the riotous conflict of testimony and evidence? On the one side there are the Russians, mostly emigres and refugees, whose testimony is that Russia is groaning beneath the yoke of a tyranny more barbarous and oppressive than that of the hateful bureaucracy of Tsar Nicholas II. It is impossible to put this mass of testimony aside, to exclude it as incompetent or immaterial. Epithets like "reactionaries," "counter-revolutionists" and "monarchist agents" make a poor response to concrete charges when these are made by such men and women as Tchaykovsky, Breshkovsky, Miliukov, Avksentiev, Agounov, Zenzinov, Spiridonova, Bourtzev, Martov, Axeirod, Berkenheim, Alexinsky, Kouprin, the late Andreiev, Strumillo, Jandarmov, Iordansky and many others. If Tchaykovsky and Breshkovsky are to be dismissed as "senile dotards," Avksentiev and Berkenheim, for instance, cannot be so dismissed. If Miliukov and Kouprin are to be dismissed as "bourgeoisie" and "monarchists" no such charges can be brought against Axelrod or Martov, or against the militant Socialist trade union leaders, Strumillo and Jandarmov.

Then men and women have all served with honor and distinction in the long struggle for Russian freedom. With two exceptions they are all Socialists. The list is not complete; it is only a sample list, used for illustrative purposes. A full list of the radical and Socialist leaders of Russia irreconcilably opposed to Bolshevism would amount to a roster of the most honored and trusted leaders of the Russian revolutionary movement during the last half century. Of course all this is not conclusive evidence that Bolshevism is wrong, that it is reactionary and oppressive. It does, however, tend to establish a strong presumption to that effect; a presumption that is greatly strengthened by the fact that from the very first the Bolsheviki have had the co-operation of many of the leading officials of the former Tsar's secret police and espionage department. The presumtion is further strengthened by the reports which have been made by well-known European Socialists.

HOST OF EYE-WITNESSES

On the other hand, there is the direct, and generally more recent, favorable testimony of a host of "eye-witnesses," especially of British and American journalists. Some of these are fabulists and romancers; some are dupes of cunning masters of the propagandist's art; others are dummies who serve the same purpose and role as the manikins of the ventriloquist. Obviously, however, there are some among these observers who do not belong to either of the foregoing classes. They are honest and intelligent men, many of them journalists, trained and acute—if superficial—observers. These men tell us that the stories of terrorism have been greatly exaggerated, like the stories of atrocities during the war. They tell us that there is order in Russia; that substantial progress is being made; that in Soviet Russia the people "enjoy more freedom than in Finland and in some respects more even than in England." to quote the words of my old comrade-at-arms, George Lansbury of The London Daily Herald. Similar reports are made by Colonel Malone, M.P., Mr. Goode of The Manchester Guardian, Mr. Copping of The Daily Chronicle, Mr. Ransome and many others.

When a great and influential newspaper publishes a series of signed articles by its own representative, purporting to give a faithful account of Russian conditions based upon personal observation, the ordinary reader is inclined to accept the reports as substantially true. The circumstances surrounding the publication psychologise him into a state of confident trustfulness. His favorite newspaper tells him that here at last is reliable information from Russia; that he need no longer trouble to defend himself against propagandists' deception; that its own special representative will write faithfully of things as they are and tell "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

How can we expect the ordinary newspaper reader, the Mr. Average Man, whose opinion is public opinion, to question the competence of the special correspondent of his favorite daily newspaper? How shall the reader know that he is getting propaganda dished out to him as impartial observation? How shall he realise that the correspondent has never for a moment been free to dig into things for himself; that before he crossed the frontier he was taken in hand by Bolshevist officials, and that he has never seen or spoken to any person except in the presence of a Bolshevist official, and, in most cases, through a Bolshevist interpreter? It is not possible to get a truthful picture of Russia under Bolshevist rule from men whose knowledge is thus acquired and limited. Have we forgotten the beautiful word pictures of the beneficent rule of Tsar Nicholas II. which were similarly produced?

FREE INQUIRY NEEDED

There is a method whereby the truth can be ascertained and made available to all men. Nothing could be easier than this, if the Bolshevist rulers of Russia are willing to have the truth known, and they have no right to expect the material aid for which they are asking unless, and until, the truth has been established beyond reasonable question. A commission of anywhere from six to ten Americans, representing various interests and points of view, could, if the Bolsheviki were willing to give them perfect freedom, very speedily ascertain the salient facts upon which we have a right to be informed before we commit ourselves to any extensive program of economic assistance to Russia.

Such a commission should include, if possible, men who have manifested some degree of sympathy with Bolshevism, as well as men known to be hostile to it. The commission should include experts in finance, industrial organisation and management, political and social science and representatives of organised labor. At least some of the members should be familiar with the Russian language and, especially, with modern Russian political and economic history. Such interpreters and translators as they might need should be taken from this country, as much care being exercised in their selection as in the selection of the commission of investigation itself.

They should not go as the guests of the Russian Government or of any party, faction or group in Russia, or be in any way connected with any organisation composed of or controlled by Russian emigres. Their going should be conditioned upon explicit assurances by the Soviet Government that full freedom would be given to them to conduct their investigation, subject, of course, to their obedience to the laws of the land and their absolute unconditioned non-interference in the political affairs of Russia. They should be assured of the right to move about freely, without being accompanied by representatives of the Government; of the right to talk freely to officials, workmen, peasants, soldiers and, particularly, those leaders of the trade unions, co-operatives and political parties who have opposed the Bolsheviki.

This implies, of course, a pledge from the Soviet Government that all memoranda and documents belonging to such a commission would be regarded as inviolate and immune from search and sequestration, and that full immunity from arrest or molestation or prosecution of any kind would be given to all persons presenting testimony to the commission. Upon such matters as the possible basis for credit, the nature and extent of the securities available and of the guarantees of the rights of creditors the commission should have the right to submit in writing memoranda requesting information and to receive written replies thereto. Finally, in all conferences of an official character the commission should have the right to employ its own stenographers for the purpose of making its own record, a like right being enjoyed by the representatives of the Soviet Government.

PROPOSAL UNANSWERED

Substantially similar requirements were set forth by the Executive Committee of the League of Nations in its telegram to the Soviet Government on March 13, 1920. As these lines are being written, a month later, no reply appears to have been made to that proposal. It is not at all unlikely that the Soviet Government will decline to receive the commission, of the League of Nations, upon some pretext or other. All the world knows that it is to America that it must look for the greater part of the economic assistance it needs, and America is not in the League of Nations and will not be represented on the proposed commission. It is quite possible, moreover, that the proposal to send a commission of investigation from this country, as I have suggested, would be met by a counterproposal, as was that of the International Labor Bureau. Replying to the President of the International Labor Bureau, M. Albert Thomas, the Soviet Government expressed its willingness "to receive missions to inquire into questions of fact," but, at the same time, "reserved the right to send similar mission to other countries."

Melted Wood May Prove Useful

It is possible to melt wood by heating it in a vacuum, producing a hard, homogeneous substance. Melted wood was for a long time only a laboratory curiosity, but it may be that industry shall presently discover practical applications of the greatest interest.

Now although wood is eminently inflammable it melts at a relatively low temperature, but in very precise conditions, and only when it is absolutely removed from contact with oxygen so that its combustion is impossible. This may be understoood when we remember what its composition is. When its immediately soluble constituents have been removed, by means of alcohol, for instance, it gives on analysis organic acids, water, oily essences, silicates, sulphates, phosphates, chlorides, and hydrocarbonates of lime, potash, soda and magnesia, carbonic acid, carbonated hydrogen, etc.—that is to say, solely bodies susceptible of being evaporated or dissolved after having co-operated by chemical affinity in the formation of determinate substances.

Starting from these data Messrs. Bizouard and Lenoir, in 1891, studied the problem of the fusion of wood. They operated in a closed vessel at a relatively low temperature—that is about all one can gather from the records of the period.

Their work was taken up by others, and now there is a full operative technic that enables us easily to obtain excellent results. A metal receiver, a sort of boiler having a double bottom through which superheated steam passes, is filled with bits of wood. It is closed by a lid similar to that used in autoclaves and provided with a tube and stopcock communicating with an apparatus for exhausting the air. When the wood thus kept in a vacuum is heated above 284 degrees Fahrenheit the water and other volatile substances are given off first and are drawn off by means of the exhausting apparatus, after which the heating is continued for about three hours. There then take place a complex series of reactions and phenomena analogous to those that accompany the distillation of wood in a closed vessel, and in this way all the so-called pyrogenous products are separated; these in turn are drawn off, condensed and separated so that they may be utilised commercially. There then remain in the receptacle only the fibrous skeleton of the wood and the mineral salts, which taken together constitute a fusible mass. This is allowed to cool slowly, out of contact with the air, and then placed in a second boiler, which, after the air has been exhausted, is filled with nitrogen under a pressure of 1.5 to 2 atmospheres. The whole is heated to 1,500 degrees Fahrenheit, for two hours, and at the end of this time the wood is melted into a homogeneous, hard mass.

Railroading In Spain

Railway travel, even in the United States, is notoriously not what it used to be in the halcyon days before the war upset an easy-going world. Even when a strike does not happen to be on, the passenger is apt to have to smooth out things for himself instead of having them automatically smoothed out by somebody else before he ever gets to them. In countries which never did have good rail service things may be (and doubtless are) worse, but nobody except the tourist minds very much. Here is a picturesque report from a traveler in Spain, who writes to The London Daily Mail from Bobadilla:

"I have just completed 2,000 miles of Spanish railways, and suddenly made a discovery. There are no Spanish railway trains.

"Except for a few international expresses, there are only some steam diligences, following very nearly the old diligence routes, stopping as often and saving time because it is easier to replace a faulty rail than to repair a washed-out road.

"Usually on the long distances there is one diligence a day each way. The discovery earlier would have saved much discomfort. Henceforth I move, as is fitting, with cushions, food supplies and the baggage of a traveler in the good old coaching days. For there are always and everywhere porters galore.

"Bobadilla, where it is raining bucketfuls, links past and present. The diligences here hit the international route and a sleeping car. There is an Irish waiter, a R. N. and R. N. R., torpedoed twice on "special service" during the war, once by a lurking fiend off Alicante, where the felucca hid it, once off Marseilles by a submarine from the Balearic Islands:

"He is a surprise. As the diligence train arrives from Seville or Granada you see him flying along with his white apron a-sail; he catches the British eye at once, pulls up and you hear his cheery formula. 'This way sir, Stove alight inside. Four hours' wait. Tea's ready, sir. Come in out o' the wet.'

"He had enough of 'Gib,' and is working his way by easy stages to France, and so, doubtless, back to Dublin, where he was born.

"When the rain lifts and it is possible to go outside you discover how very little things have changed in the last century or so. A hooded cart with four mules in a line heaves and groans over a road like a plowed field, taking the traveler from the coach route off to some ruinous village still perched on a cliff because there was once a Moorish castle there.

"The platform is alive with a mob of people, mostly children and onlookers, who have no earthly connection with the service, but are there out of curiosity. By way of passing the time they demand in chorus a "little dog," which is a half penny, but appear not to have the least hope of getting it.

"Out along the track called a road is a solitary horseman, apparently a rigid statue, on a little black mare. He wears a wide flat-brimmed hat and long cloak and has a sporting rifle attached to the lumbering old saddle with its two uncomfortable peaks. His feet are in great bucket stirrups which have not changed their shape since the days of the Moors. If he is not a bandit it is clearly from want of opportunity and not of inclination.

"Then you return to the warm dining room, the flying Irishman and a four shilling dinner, with red wine included."

The Army Mule.

(Inspired by the official encomium recently issued by the Q. M. G., U. S. A.)

Heehaw! Heehaw!
A loud huzzah!
Blow, buglee, blow; and bang the drum.
The army's pet
Gets his brevet,
The mule into his own has come!

A perfect jool,
The army mule—
A diamond—though somewhat rough.
His temper has
A touch of jazz,
His heels lend tang to his rebuff.

Ears like a sail,
A sad, sad tail,
A form devoid of ease and grace,
A wicked eye,
A taste for rye,
And lacking pulchritude of face,

Yet though he'd squawk
Sometimes, and balk
When roads were rough and work was rife,
At duty's call
He'd pull and haul,
And sometimes answer with his life.

Yes, as a rule
The army mule
Paid fully for his bed and board,
Perhaps he'll get
A medal yet,
The gawky, pawky, four legged Ford!

A Golden City

The Mexican city of Guanajuato, built near the oldest gold mines in the country, was originally constructed of adobes made of the refuse of these mines. As the early processes of extraction were very imperfect, the walls and floors of these buildings were thus full of gold.

Things would have continued thus for an indefinite time, and the inhabitants would have been living yet in these valuable buildings, if the passage of a railway line near by had not necessitated the demolition of about 100 houses.

DELICIOUS CANDIES

Libby's CREAM

Never would you think that candy could be made at home so easily as this! It's no trick at all to make dainty bonbons, chocolates, stuffed dates and all kinds of fascinating sweets.

You don't even need to light the stove.

The base for them all is made by sifting two cups of powdered sugar and adding enough Libby's Cream to form a paste that can be handled. Work this with the hands until creamy, and flavor with any preferred flavoring.

To make coconut candy, roll small portions of this cream fondant in shredded coconut and stand on oiled paper to dry. For bonbons, color with vegetable coloring or add chopped nuts, raisins, figs or coconut. Or you can use the fondant to stuff stoned dates or figs.

The secret of the success of all these tempting candies lies in Libby's Cream. For its consistency is just right to combine with the sugar. Ask your grocer today for a can of this creamy milk that comes to you from rich dairying district and see how easily you can be your own candy maker.

Boards An Airplane From Speeding Train

Washington, April 24.—Word has reached the War Department that Arthur Oakley, a former officer of the Flying Corps, transferred himself from the top of moving train to an airplane at Ellington Field, Texas, without injury.

The train was moving about seventy miles an hour when the experiment was tried. As the airplane neared the train a suspension ladder was lowered from it, and this was grasped by Oakley. On account of the wash of air from the train the aviator had difficulty in climbing the ladder, and did not succeed in doing so until the train had gone a mile.

S. E. Cox, described as an oil magnate, who witnessed the demonstration from his own airplane, gave Oakley a lease of ten acres of land.
